AGGRESSIVE & DAY TRADING AUTHORIZATION

I understand that aggressive trading, and especially day trading, which is the purchase and sale of a foreign exchange con tract in the same day, thus ending the day with no established position in the market or being flat, is an extremely high-risk strategy. I understand that such trading generates substantial commission charges to my account. I understand that due to such active trading, the commission charges relative to the funds deposited in my account may exceed what is considered normal or prudent in Foreign Exchange trading. I understand that such commission charges will increase my risk of loss and can account for all or part of my trading losses.

I acknowledge the additional risks and agree to such an aggressive or day trading strategy. I further acknowledge that I am in control of, and responsible for, all trades executed in my account, and I agree to review my account and any open market positions daily and report any discrepancy immediately
